

Executive Coaching Opportunities for Impact

In challenging times, establishing consistent funding to meet your short-term needs and for long-term sustainability is harder than ever. Fundraising and development activities aren't the only areas that determine whether an organization is fully funded. Your non-profit success is also dependent upon effective leadership from the executive team throughout your organization. This type of leadership requires a balance of well developed skill sets and execution excellence to meet the demands for increased results. At BreakThru Fundraising, we specialize in helping you achieve your desired results faster. Check out the following opportunities for impact and then contact us for a Free Fundraising Coaching Session to experience the BreakThru difference.
